

On Qayamat, will we be able to see SHIAs?

Q: On the Day of Judgment, will I be able to see what happened to Shia and non-Muslim people I know. I mean, will I be able to see what happens to them? Also, if InshaALLAH I enter Jannat, will I be able to see what happened to the non Muslims who used to argue with me that Islam and Ahl-e-Sunnah are liars (NaozuBILLAH)? Will I be able to tell them that "On Earth I told you to follow the truth, but today Allah has given you the ajar of your deeds."?

A: Allah Ta'ala states:

'On the day of Qayamat, you will see those who spoke lies against Allah Ta'ala. Their faces will be turned black. Is Hell-fire not an abode for those who were haughty?'

As for seeing and conversing with them after having entered Jannat, Allah Ta'ala depicts a typical conversation between the inmates of Jannat and the dwellers of hell in Surah 7 Verse 44-50.

Verse 44: 'The inmates of the garden (paradise) will call out to the dwellers of hell, 'We have indeed found the promises of our Lord true. Have you also found your Lord's promise true?' They will proclaim, 'Yes'. But a crier shall call out between them, 'The curse of Allah is upon the wrong-doers.'

Verse 50: 'The companions of the fire will call out to the dwellers of paradise, 'Pour down to us water or anything that Allah Ta'ala has provided you with.' They will reply, 'Verily Allah has forbidden both these things for those who rejected Him.'

and Allah Ta'ala Knows Best

Mufti Ebrahim Desai.